FUTURE OF WELLNESS

Website Structure & Navigation

Observation

- Product discovery relies on the generic "Shop" menu option.
- A dedicated, clearly visible collection entry would make it easier for users to explore all available products and flavours.

Recommendation

- Add a dedicated Shop All or All Products link directly to the main navigation bar.
- Create a central collection page displaying all available products, with clear product images, names, pricing and ratings.
- Ensure users can access individual product pages directly from the collection.

Social Proof & Brand Credibility

Observed

- At the time of the audit, social media profile links were not visibly integrated into the website.
- This limited the opportunity for visitors to explore the brand's social presence and customer engagement outside the website.

Recommended

- Integrate Instagram and other active social media profile links into the website header or footer.
- Showcase user-generated content, customer testimonials and product experiences.
- Add social media content that demonstrates product usage, customer feedback and brand engagement.

Blog Content Quality & E-E-A-T Optimisation

Observed

- Blog content and supporting visuals could offer more original, brand-specific insights rather than relying on generic informational content.
- Author attribution currently uses a generic name.
- Content headings and topic structure can be better aligned with search intent.
- The content strategy needs stronger emphasis on health education, scientific references and expert credibility.

Recommended

- Develop a dedicated content strategy around electrolyte balance, hydration, sodium, potassium and magnesium.
- Include relevant product and collection links naturally within educational articles.
- Optimise H1, H2 and H3 headings according to search intent.
- Introduce named authors and qualified medical or nutrition expert reviewers, with relevant credentials.

Product Page Optimisation

Observed

- The product page offers a single pack containing 15 sachets, but there is no individual sachet or smaller trial option.
- Customers who are unfamiliar with the flavour may hesitate to purchase a full pack before trying the product.
- The product page mentions that every batch is lab-tested and provides a "See Lab Reports" link, but the accessibility and clarity of the report-download experience can be improved.

Recommended placement

- Introduce a single-sachet trial or smaller sample pack to reduce the initial purchase commitment.
- Provide an easily accessible, downloadable product-specific lab test report.
- Highlight product testing information near the ingredients and nutritional information.
- Clearly communicate the product's flavour, ingredients, nutritional composition and usage instructions.

Product URL Structure & SEO

Observation

The current product URL contains emojis and special characters:

`/products/guava-chilli-salts-🍈🌶️`

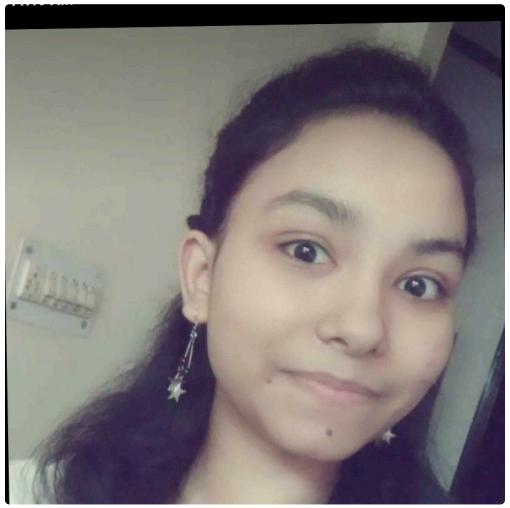

Recommendation

A cleaner URL would be:

/products/guava-chilli-electrolytes

- Avoid emojis and unnecessary special characters in URL slugs.
